MAY BE THREE CORNERED FIGHT

Republican Mayoralty Caucus May See Trio of Candidates in Field

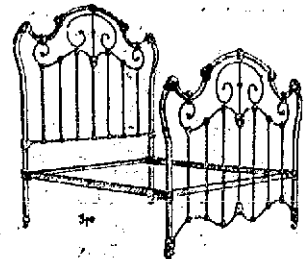

It looks like a three cornered fight and Freeman R. Garrett would be at the Republican mayoralty caucus on Saturday. The city committee have announced that Fred H. Ward didate in the person of E. P. Stoddard.

The Herald man put the matter up to Mr. Stoddard today and was informed that he was giving the matter much consideration as a result of the request of his friends.

It is most certain that Stoddard's name will appear with others on the caucus ballot and its just as certain that he, as the latest candidate, will cause much activity among the voters before the next Republican candidate for mayor is named by the party.

NORTH CAROLINAS CHAMPIONS

List of the Naval Football Games of Season at This Station

The football team representing the U. S. cruiser North Carolina is one of the strongest that ever played here. The battleships' late arrival at this port caused a short season, but it did not fail to let the North Carolina's players win the port championship.

During October there was an interesting series between the several naval teams in port and at the conclusion the U. S. S. Montana was adjudged the champion. When the North Carolina arrived here, the football eleven challenged the Montana team for the title and won easily.

Then the North Carolina's team went to Portland and defeated the strong team representing Fort McKinley, it being the soldiers' first defeat on their home grounds in five years. The soldiers had previously played Bates college to a standstill.

On Thanksgiving day the North Carolina eleven journeyed to Newburyport, where they defeated the Newburyport A. C., composed of ex-college players, 15 to 0. In this game the sailors' crack quarterback, Thompson, kicked three goals from the field, one of which was from the 40-yard line.

The results of the naval games this fall follows:

- Sept. 17—Tennessee 10; Paducah 0.
- Sept. 24—Tennessee 28, Paducah 5.
- Sept. 28—Montana 8, Paducah 5.
- Oct. 1—Montana 0, Tennessee 0.
- Oct. 8—Montana 0, Paducah 0.
- Oct. 9—Fort McKinley 20, Tennessee 3, at Portland.
- Oct. 12—Portland 3, Montana 0.
- Oct. 16—Fort McKinley 15, Montana 6, at Portland.
- Oct. 19—Tennessee 5, Portsmouth 0.
- Oct. 22—N. H. State College 41, Tennessee 0, at Durham.
- Oct. 26—Montana 3, Tennessee 0.
- Oct. 27—Fort McKinley 10, Montana 0.
- Oct. 28—Fort McKinley 6, Tennessee 5.
- Oct. 31—North Carolina 9, Montana 3.
- Nov. 12—North Carolina 1, Portsmouth 0, (forfeited).
- Nov. 14—North Carolina 6, Portsmouth 0.
- Nov. 20—North Carolina 14, Fort McKinley 0, at Portland.
- Nov. 22—North Carolina, 1, Fort McKinley 0, (forfeited).
- Nov. 24—North Carolina 15, Newburyport A. C. 0, at Newburyport.

MILK MAY GO UP ANOTHER CENT

Will Dealers Decide to Make Increase the First of December?

If there is any combination that has anything on the local milk trust we would like to spend a few minutes in looking at it. Listen to this: Milk going up to eight cents per quart. This is about the strongest thing that the milk barons have handed out to the public for many days.

With this nice little game of fleece comes a story that the cost of cows has advanced, and labor is higher. Supposing such has come to pass, why cannot these corrections be met with the great grain crop, the biggest in years and the lowest price of feed. It is certainly time for a protest against this move, especially in behalf of the poor mother with nursing infants.

Another meeting is said to be planned before final action is taken.

COMPETITION IN THE OIL TRADE

In view of a prospective contest for local trade with the Gulf Refining company, a distributor of oils which has asked permission to erect storage tanks in this city, the Standard Oil company has sent its agents among the trade soliciting contracts for a year.

The company has guaranteed a stable price for the year. It is said that in other cities where the Texas company has made inroads the price has decreased.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Catherine Moynahan Passes Away at Her Home in Brooklyn

Word reached this city today of the passing of Mrs. Catherine Moynahan, widow of Michael Moynahan, a former resident of Portsmouth. Death followed a lingering illness at the family home, No. 135 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Moynahan is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Forest, Miss Nellie Moynahan, who is a Dominican Nun in the religious world, five sons, James, Patrick, Michael, Cornelius, and Timothy all residents of New York.

The school board nominations meet the approval of the citizens in general.

MARGESON BROTHERS, THE QUALITY STORE, Vaughan Street, Phone 570.

Has a barge of the Piscataqua Navigation company, loaded to the rails with the new station's outfit. Since Friday the gale has kept her in port, for the best of weather is needed to disembark the cargo on the rocky telf.

Capt. Joseph F. Staples, keeper of the station is here waiting for smooth weather to superintend the landing of the cargo. Aboard the barge is everything from cooking utensils to life saving apparatus, and the distribution of this vast array in its proper quarters will mark the christening of the new station.

Until this is done and the station is reported ready for occupancy and active service the crew will not be selected, but this can be done in a short time.

Howard O. Nelson, state agent of Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has been waiting a chance to go to the Signals on the barge and relieve the horse at Star Island which was left there by the deserting watchmen of the Southern Maine Steamship Company.

NEW INDUSTRIES IN THE COUNTY

Portsmouth's booming industries have apparently infected other portions of Rockingham county with the same sort of a germ, for new manufacturing are now going up at Hampton and Newfields.

The Hampton industry is the starting of a manufacture of women's slippers by two of its townspeople, W. L. and E. E. Redman, who have equipped a building 50x20 feet and are soon to start the manufacture. In addition the Sears, Roebuck company are to put another concern in operation again.

Newfields is again manufacturing machinery by the new firm which has begun operations there this week.

Theatrical Topics.

"The Thief"
No play of recent times has achieved the fame of "The Thief," that stirring drama of love and jealousy, of a wife's caprice and a husband's condemnation which comes to Music Hall Dec. 5.

"The Thief" created a furore in Paris and was greeted by the press and public of this country upon its production at the Lyceum Theatre as the greatest sensation the theatre ever offered. At popular prices it should establish a new record for us, and all wish to miss witnessing a performance of it at a price within the reach of all theatregoers.

A married woman, on a small income, endeavors to dress on a par with the leaders of society for the one purpose of holding the love of her husband who often expresses his admiration of the appearance of her more wealthy friends. She does so by stealing a large sum of money and is found out. Her confession to her husband and his criticism of her sin comprises a scene the like of which has never before been presented in the theatre.

Deckstader's Minstrels

Low Deckstader and his "twentieth century minstrels," now under the management of the Messrs. Shubert, will be the attraction at Music Hall Dec. 9 in their latest creation in black face comedy. Associated with Deckstader this season are Carroll Johnson, Eddie Mazier, "Happy" Naulty, Chas. Falk, Harry A. Ellis, Tom McKenna, Allan Campbell, Johnny Foley and Wm. Smith. Always drawing upon his own ideas to make his minstrels unique, Mr. Deckstader this year comes forward with a pretentious offering which he calls "The Possum Hunt Club Review." As usual there is a unique first part, scene and it is promised that when the curtain rises on this year's entertainment it will reveal one of the most brilliant stage pictures ever seen in minstrelsy. It shows the lawn of the club house on the evening of a reception and it is here that the latest songs, jokes and stories are related by the club members. As a fitting climax to this year's Deckstader comes forward with "The Chocolate Soldier," a story of love and adventure, which is carried through to the final curtain by partaking of a wonderful beverage at the suggestion of the Yucatan man. As the curtain descends Deckstader is in shape to bid the audience adieu, and the second part of the play is the realization of his dreams. Among some of the large numbers may be mentioned the travesty of "Finlandia," a spectacular dance called "Louisiana," introducing Carroll Johnson, and the island of "Shanghai" with its wonderfully costumed inhabitants. Deckstader makes his escape from this island in an aeroplane, flying out into the auditorium over the heads of the audience. Another feature of this year's minstrel is believed to be deserving of special mention is the singing contingent which includes Chas. Falk, Harry A. Ellis, Tom McKenna, Allan Campbell and Lewis P. Muir, the latter well known as author and composer of "Harbor Shop Chord," "Chilly Billy Bee" and other popular ragtime melodies. The Messrs. Shubert, it is said have staged the production along hitherto unknown lines as to massiveness.

"The Chocolate Soldier"

Instead of the one waltz considered fair measure in modern light opera, Strauss has given four in "The Chocolate Soldier." In addition to the "My Hero" waltz, which runs throughout the work in varying tempo, there is "Tiralah," "Forgive, Forgive," and "Falling in Love," of almost equal fascination, and an overflow of melody that turns from dreamy love notes of gypsy fascination to whirling, crashing measures.

The notes of "My Hero" run as a thread throughout, now satirizing the heart-broken situation, now changing to the warmer tones of love. All this is struts its way upon the stage, so as to furnish a tone picture as even and Wagner's Rheingold maidens and for ten minutes after the rise of curtain no word is actually spoken, but, like an interpretative chorus, a trio sung by the three principal women tell the audience of the happenings. The vocal parts are punctuated with expressive orchestral intrudes and afterwards the actual transition from song to speech produces a distinctly curious effect, it is said.

For the producer, Mr. F. C. Whitney, a full choir of wood, wind and brass and strings have been made necessary, players of excellent skill and singers, of course.

Stanislaus Stange has made the libretto into English. The large chorus that must be carried is seen but little. They are dragged on the stage in and out of season for the sake of their frocks or the support the

There were but two candidates in the field for mayor, Mr. Fred H. Ward and Mr. Freeman R. Garrett. Ward Three—Robert I. Snodden. Ward Four—Albert Hislop. For member of Board of Public Works—William J. Carter. For Assessor of Taxes—Albert H. Junkins, Eben H. Blaisdell, Frank J. Philbrick.

B. F. Keith's Theatre

A diver entirely different from any other that has appeared in vaudeville, will be one of the leading attractions at B. F. Keith's theatre next week. Her name is Odiva, and she is a Samoan pearl diver who recently came to this country, and everywhere has created a sensation, not only by her diving from great heights but from the feats she performs under water. Odiva carries an entire troupe with her, and her performances are in a mammoth glass tank set on top of the stage. It is so constructed that everything she does under water is plainly visible. Some of her most interesting feats are waiting under water, disrobing under water, and doing all sorts of stunts, including sewing and acrobatics. Another big feature will be the distinguished actress, Eliza Proctor Otis, who will make her first vaudeville appearance here in a splendid comedy which has proved one of the biggest hits of her career. In fact, there will be many headline features including Stuart Barck, the monologist who comes with some new stories and songs; Ed. Reynard, the ventriloquist with a big production; Fay, Two Coleys and Fay, who will be seen in Boston for the first time in their musical comedy; James and Sadie Leonard and Richard Anderson in their great travesty on "Cleopatra and Caesar"; Carl Randall, the boy dancer; the Musical Philands; and Clara Bellesini.

Don't think that this can be earned. Thousands of stunts can be done here and by Dean's Children, 30 cents at any drug store.

Ward and Mr. Freeman R. Garrett, and the committee voted to present both names. For the positions of councilman at large, the Board of Public Works and the Board of Inspection, the committee endorsed the candidates selected, but there were three candidates for the assessor of taxes, Albert H. Junkins, the retiring

PARLIAMENT IS DISSOLVED

King George's Speech Notable For Its Brevity

HE SIDESTEPS THE CRISIS

Deceased at Settlement of Newfoundland Fisheries Dispute by Arbitration—Supreme Struggle to Limit Legislative Power of House of Lords Now on in Force—Balfour Sees Plot to Thwart Popular Will London, Nov. 29.—The second parliament in the reign of the late King Edward VII, which met on Feb. 15 last, was dissolved in pursuance of the program of the Liberal government to go before the country on the question of the prerogatives of the house of lords.

The king's speech was notable for its brevity, the only reference to the constitutional crisis being a colorless expression of regret that the conference between the leaders of the opposing contending parties had failed of an agreement over the reformation of the upper chamber.

The longest and most interesting paragraph, which immediately followed an allusion to the death of King Edward VII, dealt with the recent arbitration of the Newfoundland fisheries dispute with the United States and read:

"I confidently hope that the questions connected with the North Atlantic fisheries between Canada and Newfoundland on one hand and with the United States of America on the other, which have been the subject of controversy for nearly a century, have been at last finally settled by the award of The Hague tribunal. It is the cause of special satisfaction that it has been found possible to solve by arbitration problems of such an intricate and difficult nature, and that the award has been received by both sides in a spirit which must tend to increase good will."

The proclamation of dissolution summons a new parliament to assemble on Jan. 31, 1911.

Monday's dissolution of parliament brings to a crisis the supreme struggle now in progress to limit the legislative powers of the house of lords and thereby permit the effective branch of parliament, the house of commons, to exert larger powers in effecting legislation, more particularly measures relating to Irish home rule and the financial budgets.

The present house of commons has a ministerial majority of 124, and the present standing of the various elements is as follows: Liberals 275, Labor members 40, Nationalists 71, Independent Nationalists 11, Unionists 273. Of the foregoing, the first four groups are generally counted as supporters of the ministry, giving a ministerial strength of 387, as against the Unionist strength of 273, or a net ministerial majority of 124.

The last general election followed the dissolution of Jan. 10 last. Prior to that the ministerial majority was 334, and as a result of Unionist gains in the election the ministerial majority was reduced to the 124 of the house just dissolved. The former dissolution was also based on the issue of the house of lords, Premier Asquith having introduced a resolution declaring that the refusal of the lords to enact the financial budget passed by the commons had constituted "a breach of the constitution and a usurpation of the rights of the commons."

The election address of Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, is a brief document. It declares that the Unionist program of legislation is practically the same as at the general election and asserts that behind the single chamber conspiracy lurks Socialism and home rule.

"It is because both Nationalists and Socialists are aware that their darling projects are not in harmony with the considered will of the people," says Balfour, "that they press for the abolition of the only constitutional safeguard which at critical moments will enable that will to prevail."

ALASKA NEEDS HER COAL

Development of Territory Checked by Ill-Advised Restrictions

Washington, Nov. 29.—Expressing it as his opinion that want of cheap fuel and the delay in opening the Alaska coal fields are the strongest adverse factors in the present problem of territorial progress, Governor Clark of Alaska, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, declares that "the ill-advised policy of forbidding all development of the large coal resources of Alaska or of placing such a restrictions upon development as to make the embarkation of private capital impossible is to be deprecated, while the policy of conservation by proper use is to be encouraged."

"This coal," he says, "is needed for the industries of the territory and for the physical comfort of our people, and on no account should it be withheld from these uses."

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Rev. Michael A. Starr last evening committed suicide in a rooming house by inhaling illuminating gas. The body of the minister, who has been officiating in several local churches, was lying across a trunk when found.

According to the landlady, Starr came to the house at an early hour yesterday morning. He was accompanied by a good looking woman, for whom the police are looking but of whom they have no trace. "That the minister intended to commit suicide is proved by a note found on the dresser."

SAYS HE IS DEAD

Patient Who Is Cured in a Hospital Refuses to Get Out

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Robert Ross, 28 years old, who has been a patient at St. Mary's hospital since Nov. 6, refuses to leave the institution, his claim being that he is dead, and therefore can not leave the building. Ross has been a victim of pneumonia for the last three weeks. He was pronounced cured yesterday and was told to get out.

"You can't put me out," Ross declared. "I'm dead."

The hospital authorities resorted to heroic means to prove to Ross that he still lived but he refused to respond to treatment. He is still in the hospital.

PREPARING FOR HOT CAMPAIGN

Pinchot Is on the Warpath For Conservation

OPPOSED TO SMOOT BILL

Will Fight Proposition to Grant Control of Water Power to Undivided States—Some Western Interests Against Separating Lands From Ground Beneath Surface—Appalachian Forest Reserve Bill Safe

Washington, Nov. 29.—Gifford Pinchot, president of the National Conservation association, is preparing for an aggressive campaign at the next session of congress in behalf of a cause for which he has been working ever since he saw his first tree. The other officials of the association, including the militant secretary, Thomas H. Shipp, and the equally militant attorney, Philip Wells, are preparing to accompany Pinchot in the attack.

Recently there was issued by the National Conservation association a summary of legislation, bearing the signature of Pinchot as president of the association. In it this was written: "In spite of all opposition, the principles for which we stand have been enacted into law, in a considerable number of cases, and are represented in many bills still awaiting action. More than one avenue to monopolistic grabbing of the people's property has been closed, but much still remains to be done."

The conservationists are going to try to do the "much" during the coming short session. They are strong in antagonism to a bill now pending in the senate which proposes to grant the control of water power sites to the undivided states. It is known as the Smoot bill and its subject matter has been the cause of debate in congress and in the country, but particularly in the western country. Conservationists believe in federal control.

Much of the strength of the west as it is represented in the senate will be exerted on behalf of the Smoot bill. Some of the insurgent Republicans from the "far country," however, will stand by the conservationists. "Congress is to be told by the opponents of the Smoot bill that the nation is morally bound to exercise for the general welfare its constitutional power to dispose of and to regulate the public domain, and that in surrendering its land titles to private sites, and therefore the control of their present and future use, the federal government would be shirking its duty to the people whose property it holds in trust."

Last year President Taft devoted a special message to the subject of conservation. Some of his recommendations were not to the liking of the forces of Pinchot and in two or three instances on minor bills they succeeded in securing amendments which they say have improved the recommended legislation greatly. It is probable that the president will have something to say about conservation in his forthcoming message.

Some of the western interests will fight hard against any proposition to separate "forever and all time" the surface lands which are to be opened for agricultural purposes from the ground which lies beneath the surface. Already there is legislation which covers this matter in part, and the conservationists admit that the passage of one bill on the subject "powerfully assists" the conservation of coal and is a bulwark against theft and waste.

The hope of the conservation association is that before long a law will be enacted which will provide for the retention of the government ownership of all the mineral fuel and asphaltum which may be found under the surface of land taken up by individuals. They want the law made general, rather than merely to apply to specific cases.

The Appalachian forest reserve bill passed the house at the last session after a hard contest. The senate did not take altogether kindly to the measure, but the senators agreed to vote on it Feb. 15 next. Some of the senators may make up their minds to prevent the passage of the bill by means known to senatorial procedure.

It is needless to say, perhaps, that Pinchot is particularly interested in securing the passage of this measure. It has been opposed by men whose sole reason, it is charged, for opposition was personal dislike of the former chief forester. The conservationists believe that this measure, proposed years ago and which has been battered and shuttlecocked from one house to another, finally will be passed and that the forests of the eastern mountain chain in a large part will be preserved for all time.

Kansas City Priest a Bishop

Rome, Nov. 29.—The pope has ratified the proposal of the consistorial congregation, recommending the appointment of Very Rev. John Ward of Kansas City as bishop of Leavenworth.

A PERPETUAL INJUNCTION

Asked by Government in Suit to Dissolve the Sugar Trust

New York, Nov. 29.—A bill in equity to dissolve the American Sugar Refining company, known as the sugar trust, because it is a monopoly conducted in restraint of trade, was filed in the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York by United States District Attorney Wyle.

A perpetual injunction is asked restraining the company from paying dividends and the stockholders from exercising any privileges as stockholders. The petition charges an unlawful combination and conspiracy in dominating and fixing the selling price of raw sugars effected by forty-nine defendants, corporations and individuals in nine states.

The petition describes the manner in which the trust acquired smaller concerns and how by selling sugars for less than cost the company was able to force factories to close down, driving competitors into selling their interests to the trust.

MAINE BANK ENJOINED

Move by Examiner to Protect People's Safe Deposit and Savings

Bath, Me., Nov. 29.—The People's Safe Deposit and Savings bank was closed by an injunction issued by Associate Justice Savage of the supreme court on petition of State Bank Examiner Skelton.

Mr. Skelton explained that the action was not taken because of lack of confidence in the institution or its officers, but for the reason that the bank has not made any gain in deposits for some time; that there is such a strong competition in this vicinity for business and the bank was not on a firm enough basis to compete with the other banks.

Justice Savage ordered a hearing to be held on Dec. 27 and that an injunction be issued pending the hearing, restraining the bank from proceeding further with its business except the collection of moneys due to it. The injunction was served and no further business will be done pending an order from the court.

LYNN LASTERS ARE GRANTED INCREASE

Strike Which Would Have Involved 20,000 Is Averted

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 29.—The threatened strike of 20,000 lasters was practically settled when fifteen out of the sixteen manufacturers involved agreed to grant the lasters their desired increase of 2 cents a pair on high-top shoes and 1 cent a pair on low-tops. The increase goes into effect at once. One manufacturer, who did not attend the meeting, is said to be holding out.

There was rejoicing when the settlement was announced, for a strike of the 20,000 lasters, scheduled to take place Dec. 1 if the increase was not granted, would throw 18,000 other operatives out of work.

JURY QUICKLY SECURED

Completed by Selection of Eighty-Six Talesmen in LeBlanc Trial

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 29.—The trial of Hattie LeBlanc, on the charge of killing Clarence F. Glover of Waltham, was halted yesterday afternoon for the jury to visit the scene of the tragedy in Waltham.

Selection of the jury progressed rapidly for a trial of this nature. One juror to about every seven talesmen was the ratio of selection. The twelfth juror selected was the eighty-sixth talesman. The jury includes three farmers, two painters, teamster, clerk, weaver, harness manufacturer, merchant, lawyer and a retired business man. The foreman is H. W. Fairbanks, ex-member of the legislature and a Sudbury farmer, 42 years old.

IMPORTER ARRESTED

Alleged Undervaluation Frauds Said to Amount to $100,000

New York, Nov. 29.—United States Marshal Henkle arrested Clarence A. Walters of the firm of John S. Briggs & Sons, woolen dealers, on a federal warrant charging him with undervaluing goods imported into the country.

Assistant United States Attorney Platt declared that the alleged frauds amounted to $100,000. Walters was arraigned before Commissioner Shields and held in $10,000 bail for examination on Dec. 2.

Hotel Destroyed by Fire

Princeton, Mass., Nov. 29.—Fire destroyed the Wachusett house, the principal hotel in this town, burned the telephone exchange building, and threatened the central portion of the place. The damage is estimated at $20,000.

Illinois Gains 16.9 Percent

Washington, Nov. 29.—The population of the state of Illinois is 5,638,591, according to the statistics of the thirteenth census. This is an increase of 817,041 or 16.9 percent over 4,821,550 in 1900.

CASHIER TUFTS SHOOTSELF

Suicide at Home of Former President of Bank

PUTS BULLET IN HEART

Had Been Recently Indicted For Alleged Larceny of $8000 From Rockport National Bank and Was Out on Bail Pending Examination as to His Sanity—Long Prominent in Public Affairs of the Town

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 29.—George W. Tufts, former cashier of the Rockport National bank, who was recently indicted for the alleged larceny of about $8000 from the bank, committed suicide by shooting here last evening. He was out on bail pending an examination as to his sanity.

About two weeks ago Tufts retracted his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to one of the eight counts of the indictment. He was then released on bail again, pending the question of having him examined as to his sanity.

Yesterday Tufts left town, without informing anyone where he was going. Returning on a late afternoon train, he walked to the home of Loring Grimes, former president of the bank, whose wife is Tufts' aunt. Tufts rang the bell, and when a servant had called Grimes to the door, Tufts tore open his coat and before Grimes could make a move to prevent him, drew a revolver and shot himself through the heart. He dropped on the steps, and Dr. Tupper, who was quickly summoned, stated that death was instantaneous.

Following the regular examination of the Rockport National bank in April last, a bank examiner made an unexpected visit to the institution late in June. After looking over the bank's books, he had a conference with bank officials, and when he returned to Boston, Tufts went with him.

The cashier was taken into the federal court and held for the grand jury, which later indicted him on eight counts charging larceny and forgery of notes. It was charged that he obtained about $3000 from the bank, partly by means of notes to which he is alleged to have forged the names of his wife and of Alvin Smith of Portland, Me. Tufts pleaded not guilty, but later decided to change his plea. Tufts, who was 52 years old, had long been prominent in town affairs, and had served as town treasurer and selectman. He leaves a widow and one son.

DUEL AT CLOSE RANGE

Policeman Dies From Wound After Killing Man Who Shot Him

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—During a pistol duel at Forty-second and Pine streets last night, Policeman Barnett was shot through the spine and died later in a hospital and an unknown man, supposed to be a burglar, was shot and killed.

Dornett, who was in civil dress, had been sent to watch the locality because a number of burglaries recently were committed there. He saw two men who aroused his suspicions and he followed them. They separated at Forty-second street, and he followed one who entered an alley.

When he began to question the man, the latter drew a revolver and shot him through the body. As the policeman fell he drew his own pistol and fired two shots at his fleeing assailant. The latter dropped dead.

AVIATOR WHITE'S MEMENTO

Gets Silver Cup For His Remarkable Flight in Washington

New York, Nov. 29.—When Claude Grahame-White leaves for London tomorrow he will take with him a particularly graceful memento of his visit via aeroplane to the war department when in Washington.

It is in the shape of a tall, slender and handsomely engraved silver cup presented to him by Brigadier General Allen, chief signal officer of the United States army. The inscription on the cup reads: "To Mr. Claude Grahame-White, for his admirable flight to the war and navy departments, Washington, D. C., Oct. 14, 1910, from the chief signal officer of the United States army, Brigadier General James Allen."

Typhoid at Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 29.—The twenty-fourth case of typhoid fever developed at the naval academy when Midshipman Woodward of the first class was admitted to the naval general hospital for treatment. Of the typhoid cases in the hospital several are said to be still serious.

Alfonso's Nose Doctored

Bordeaux, Nov. 29.—King Alfonso visited Professor Houre, the specialist, who performed an operation on the king's nose last year. It is reported that another slight operation was performed successfully, the king suffering little inconvenience from it.

CORONER'S JURY OF SIX

Active Probe of Newark Holocaust to Be Carried Out

Newark, N. J., Nov. 29.—"If I had any city or state official guilty of negligence in the inspection of this building," said County Prosecutor Mott, as he stood by the ruins of the factory in which twenty-four girls lost their lives by fire, "there will be the bitterest sort of prosecution."

"I do not mean to imply," he continued, "that I have been before any evidence of criminal negligence, but I do mean that the investigation which begins today shall be in earnest. My view is that it ought to take the form of some sort of public hearing, and I think a coroner's jury will be the most effective instrument."

Accordingly a coroner's jury of six was sworn in, the first of its kind that has sat here in twenty years. There will also be separate inquiries by the grand jury, which visited the scene, by the state labor department and the city building department.

The destroyed building was the property of Miss Barbara Glass.

HAD SNUG BANK ACCOUNT

Discovery After Death of Woman Thought to Be Very Poor

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Catherine Leary, who died at her home on Sun street, caused a genuine surprise to her relatives and friends by leaving a considerable amount of money, when it had always been supposed that the woman was in very poor financial circumstances.

After the death of Mrs. Leary, who leaves one daughter, Miss Lillian Leary, money to the amount of $1265 was found secreted about the house. This amount was in gold and bills.

In addition to the above five bank books, each of which represented $1000, were also found. The discovery of the hidden wealth was as big a surprise to the daughter as it was to everybody.

Mrs. Leary was the widow of a stone cutter, who died many years ago.

NURSES' SACRIFICE TO SAVE HUMAN LIFE

Six Contribute Toward a Skin-Grafting Operation

New York, Nov. 29.—Six nurses of the city hospital, Jersey City, participated in a sacrificial act that will assure them of bearing for life a badge indicating that they contributed their mite toward saving a human life.

On the left arm of each, midway between the shoulder and the elbow, is a spot about an inch square, from which the skin was delicately pared by a razor-edged knife of a surgeon.

The six contributions of skin from the young women were added to others and the total of twenty-four square inches used in a skin grafting effort to save the life of James Stalton, who had been severely burned on the face and arm by hot tar.

GIVEN HIS OWN MEDICINE

Wife Beater Is Horsewhipped by Justice of the Peace

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 29.—Realizing that the law did not provide adequate punishment for a man who thrashed his wife whenever the humor seized him, Justice of the Peace Hayden of Snyersville vigorously lashed Albert Gay of the same place with a heavy horsewhip. When he had finished, the wife beater, weeping and begging for mercy, promised never to strike his wife again.

Mrs. Gay, a small, frail woman, appeared before Hayden with black and blue bruises and cuts on her head and arms and said her body was marked also by the blows of her husband. It was not an unusual proceeding, she declared, but she could not stand it any longer and wanted her husband punished.

BALKS AT BIG BALL

California's Governor-Elect Prefers a Simple Inaugural

Sacramento, Nov. 29.—Governor-elect Johnson will not attend the customary inaugural ball here and his refusal may result in the affair being called off. In a letter to the mayor of this city, declining to attend the ball, he says:

"So far as I am personally concerned, I prefer that your plans be not carried out. The design of the administration I am about to enter upon is simple and direct, and I wish my inauguration to be of the most simple and direct character, without ceremony or ostentation."

To Reorganize Customs Police

Washington, Nov. 29.—The secret police system of the customs service, which extends over the United States and Europe, is to be reorganized. The two organizations, however, remain separate and distinct.

LEAVE IT TO THE SECRETARY

The Army and Navy Register quotes the substance of the statement which was recently sent by the local branch of the National Masters, Mates and Pilots association to Secretary Meyer, and which was designed to better his already good opinion of this navy yard.

The Register comments on the matter as follows:

"The difficulties which beset the naval authorities in carrying out any policy of navy yard abandonment are again illustrated in a forcible way by the campaign which has been inaugurated in behalf of the naval plant at Portsmouth, N. H. When it comes to the unapproachable advantages of a particular navy yard, there is never any difficulty in composing an exhibit which seems to answer all the objections that may be raised on the other side of the question. It is the old story repeated, with the effort to save a yard in proportion to the danger of its extinction."

It is extremely interesting to note that the Register makes not the slightest attempt to refute any of this yard's unique and indisputable claims of deep water, freedom from ice, adequate room for expansion or other good qualities unequalled elsewhere. Not a single thrust from the worn-out weapon of "strong tides" which antagonistic papers were once wont to hold over this yard—only a little perfunctory disapproval in line with its customary attitude of disapprobation assumed toward navy matters which approach the bounds of inconventionality.

As to the "proportion of the danger of its extinction," the friends of the Portsmouth navy yard believe that it has never been in danger of extinction, and are now wholly prepared to let that matter rest with Secretary Meyer's own good common sense.

BIRDBEYE VIEWS

"Most wives are not as independent as the domestic in the kitchen, or as the office boy who tends the master's office door or empties his waste basket," said Rev. George Luther Cady of the Pilgrim Congregational church in Dorchester. "Every wife should be given her regular allowance, not as a gift, but as her earnings. That salary is not yours—it is hers just as much as yours—and when you take it from her you are a thief. Pay her at least a housekeeper's and a cook's wages. Until we can rid the home of the financial bully who now thinks he owns it, we shall have an increasing divorce rate." The Dorchester clergyman is beating down pretty heavily on the heads of a good many families, but where the coat fits, most pressure probably is needed.

One of the many peculiarities of Dr. Frederick A. Cook is a total incapacity to grasp the fact that his name is mud, that he is a dead end, all in, out of the running. His latest is the following: "I have no controversy in hand. It is all on the other side, and I would like you to treat the matter in that spirit. My case will eventually rest on its own merits, without reference to rival interests."

No one will deny that Salem is in need of a new depot, but fewer people will dispute the fact that Portsmouth needs one more. That Salem got the first call because of its greater importance to the railroad is not credited hereabouts either, for its general importance is not considered greater.

Suffering multitudes long since wearied of reading endless columns on the Le Blanc case fervently hope that it may now be disposed of with some semblance of the promptness attending the Crippen affair, the brevity of which put United States courts to shame.

Habitual disregard of the prohibitory and short lobster regulations has brought the majesty of the law in Maine down to a rather ordinary pedestal, as every one knows. As tending to have the same effect on national laws may be cited the case of the cruiser Washington. This vessel's home port is the Portsmouth navy yard, yet in the face of the law which made it so, she is detained and repaired at Norfolk. Here is another transparent case of judicial lobbying, with a little extra work gained for the Norfolk yard as a result.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Political Animositities

Political animositities today are seldom carried into private life. In the past just the opposite was the rule. "Coke of Norfolk" once stated that when he was a child his grandfather took him on his knee and said, "Now, remember, Tom, as long as you live, never trust a Tory," and he used to add, "I never have, and by George, I never will." Mr. G. W. E. Russell too, tells of an eccentric maiden lady whom he knew in his youth, who, having spent her life in the innermost circles of aristocratic Whiggery, always refused to enter a cab until she had extorted from the driver an assurance that he had never carried cases of infectious disease, that he was not a Puselite and that he was a Whig.—London Chronicle.

"Model" Cities

Mrs. Sage's effort to establish a model city will be watched with sympathetic interest rather than with faith. Most similar attempts have been failures. Model people would like a model city possibly, but people are human and a rigid pattern of living is objectionable to them. They are independent enough of thought to decline to accept any ready made set of ideals. Doubtless Mrs. Sage knows what sort of a home she thinks other people ought to have, but segregation of submissive souls eager to adopt the plan will be attended with difficulty. Civilization is still in the municipal band stage, which is far below the plane of a heavenly choir. Few care for a chance restrictive of a deed even to desirable reality.—Philadelphia Ledger.

MARKET LETTERS

The financial atmosphere at present is so much beleaguered by considerations of more or less minor importance that to predict the immediate course of security values, would be more or less guess work. For the long pull, however, which is the important consideration, a strong tone of optimism prevails. This is in no way better exemplified than in the marked strength in the market in the almost entire absence of public participation.

The most encouraging feature for the immediate future is the easier tone in money rates. The crop moving period is now practically past and the current is once more setting in from the West and South towards Eastern money centres. This has already been reflected in some easing in money rates and the next few weeks are likely to see a continuation of this tendency. The significance of this is more particularly in

A little backache at first. Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak. Urinary disorders quickly follow. Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.

This is the downward course of kidney ills. Don't take this course. Follow the advice of a Portsmouth citizen. Joseph C. Pettigrew, 1 Dearborn Place, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from backache or kidney complaint. My first experience with this remedy took place about three years ago. At that time my back ached a great deal, I had dizzy spells and was bothered by a burning of my eyesight. I finally decided that I had kidney trouble and secured Doan's Kidney Pills at Phillips' Pharmacy. I had taken them but a short time before there was a great improvement in every way."

A TIMELY TOPIC

REV. CHARLES STEIZIE, Of New York

The Congestion of the Cities

THERE is a possibility that the immigrant may be induced to go to the farm, although the effort to persuade him to do so has not been very successful, largely for the reason that most of the foreigners who are now coming to us lived in the city or the town back in the fatherland. In several of the colonization schemes for immigrants, the foreigners found that they were being exploited by the promoters, with the result that the news was carried to the remotest villages of the old country, creating a prejudice against the farming industry. It will take a long while to overcome this feeling.

After all, this whole matter is principally a question of human nature. We may find fault with it, and persuade ourselves that the city's poor and unemployed are fools, but whatever else they may be, they are human, and somehow, they can't very well help that. To fly in the face of prejudice, pride, and all the traditions of city life, requires greater force of character than is usually attributed to the poverty-stricken residents of the city. If they could overcome all the obstacles which stand in the way of a migration to the farm, they would be capable of making a pretty good living in the city, under ordinary circumstances.

What, then, is the remedy? Certainly not the labor colony, excepting for a peculiar class and for peculiar times. "The labor colony" probably has its place in our economic life under the present system. Nor yet shall it be found in the wholesale transfer of the city's poor to farm colonies. Many will, undoubtedly find their way to the country, and there discover life and joy in the open air. But the vast majority will remain in the city. And since they are to remain there, they must be dealt with as citizens of our municipalities. If their lives are wretched, they must be trained to learn the true values. If they are living under conditions which degrade and degrade, morally and physically, those conditions must be removed, so that even life in a tenement may be made sweet and wholesome. If they are in their present situation because of inefficiency, they should be made more competent. In any case, the right will be lost or won in the city. We cannot shift the responsibility. The problem is ours. It is ours, whether we accept it or not, for the weal or the woe of every man in the city helps to constitute the life and the thought of the world.

the fact that it removes from speculative consideration one of the greatest restraining features during the last two and a half months.

As far as the railroad situation is concerned, sentiment in that direction has shown distinct betterment this week. The address of Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission before the Railway Business association in New York, was more distinctly encouraging than any sentiment from governmental sources in many months. His statements give strong reason for the belief that the government will take a reasonable view of the whole railroad situation, will allow a moderate increase in rates, which will mean the resumption of necessary expansion by the railroads, the placing of orders for equipment, and in fact the righting of the entire railroad position, which has been somewhat askew for many months past.

Then too, we have not yet felt in full degree or in fact in any large degree, the stimulus of our great agricultural wealth in commercial and financial centres. While this has already caused a decline in commodity prices, which means a lower cost of living and a quieting of the social unrest which has been so disturbing a factor in business, it must assuredly, within the next few weeks also cause a great quickening in the wheels of industry.

The bearish arguments, while sufficient to cause some hesitation in the immediate present, are not convincing for the long pull. The prospective tariff agitation, the pending trust cases, the unknown quantity of the Democratic power in congress, of course, cause some uncertainty. But taking the situation as a whole, the unfavorable factors are dwarfed beside those factors making for progress and prosperity.—Hunt, Ellis & Co.

There has been little to relieve the monotony of the market. Yet under such conditions of apathy and indifference, it is noteworthy that prices show a quietly stubborn strength. Short commitments are made only to be eventually covered at a loss.

That the market should be narrow and circumscribed is perhaps only natural in view of the lingering mental uncertainty obtaining in most investment circles. There is a general tendency to wait till clearer impressions on current factors and also for the solution of certain other large issues in suspense.

The financial community has thus felt under the necessity of readjusting its ideas as to matters political as well as to the changed technical position created by the very considerable volume of pre-election realigning which the market was obliged to stand.

Each week, also, brings us a little deeper into the shadow of the anti-trust and freight rate decisions. The suspense that these entail is of course not in itself enjoyable; yet there is no warrant for the current

KITTERY LETTER

Kittery, Nov. 29.

PEOPLES OPINIONS

Editor Herald: I read with much astonishment an item in your paper concerning the new quarters of the police on Daniel street and the action taken by that department after its representatives had taken a view of the remodeled building.

Everybody who has inspected the place will agree that it does not compare with the stations in larger cities but I am decidedly improved over the rooms now occupied and good enough for Portsmouth. I would like to ask if the police department are really sincere in finding so much fault with the quarters or are they putting up this game for a holdup and delaying the transfer to the rooms where the department belongs.

ELIOT

Eliot, Nov. 24. Miss Alice Dixon and Mrs. Faulkner were visitors in Kittery on Monday.

The Ladies' Circle connected with the South Eliot Advent church will hold its annual sale Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 4, and also during the evening, at the home of Mrs. Titus. If stormy it will be postponed until the following day.

A row of nine apple trees on the land of George Kennard in Eliot, Me., says the Boston Globe, is believed to be the most productive in the state. The number of trees in a single row of these nine trees yielded 90 barrels of No. 1 fruit besides a few barrels of

No. 2. From a single tree in the adjoining orchard Joseph F. Kennard gathered 22 barrels of No. 1 apples that sold for $2.30 a barrel, making $55 for a single tree, not counting the No. 2 apples at all.

Mention of these wonderful fruit bearers has already been made in this column, but the wide publicity to which the item has been treated is shown by its appearance in the Globe and other large newspapers.

RAILROAD NOTES

John Hanscom, flagman at the Cutts street crossing on the Dover branch is enjoying a few days' leave of absence.

Exeter, Nov. 29. Improvements have recently been made at the high school building, the toilet rooms having been equipped in a more sanitary and improved manner.

Representative-elect Thomas H. Shaw of North Hampton is to give a supper to his supporters at the Centennial hall in that town this evening.

The quarterly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held at the Congregational church at Stratham on Thursday, when both morning and afternoon sessions will be held.

Almon Sleeper who has been spending a vacation at his home in town, returned Monday to his studies at Norwich university at Northfield, Vt.

The next session of probate court will be held on Dec. 6 at Derry.

Rev. J. E. Lary, pastor of the Advent church, has completed arrangements to begin a series of revival meetings on the evening of Dec. 6, which are to continue for an indefinite period. The preacher is to be Rev. C. W. Shattuck of Somerville, Mass., who will be assisted by a vocal artist, Frank Hagerman of Attleboro, Mass.

The funeral services of Mrs. Cora M. Webster were held Monday afternoon at the home in East Kingston, conducted by Rev. Fred B. Stanley, pastor of the Congregational church at Kingston. The bearers were all nephews, they being George and William Gooch, the latter of Boston, and W. Scott and Harold Austin, both of Newton.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary A. Coyle, wife of Matthew Coyle, were held Monday morning at the St. Michael's church, conducted by the pastor and his assistant, Rev. J. John E. Finen. The pall bearers were James and William Bruce, William Flanagan and John Callahan.

Forty hours' devotion was begun at the St. Michael's church Sunday morning, in which the pastor and his assistant, Rev. J. John E. Finen and Rev. Francis B. Hapney, are to be assisted by Rev. Riley of Newmarket.

At the meeting of the First Parish Men's club held Monday evening, Col. Richard M. Scammon of Stratham, tank commissioner of New Hampshire, gave an interesting talk on "An Old Diary."

In the case, Ernest L. Guphill and John L. Mitchell represent the respondent.

Joseph, the first witness, said that he and Mike Sullivan, another native of Poland, went to the home of Smith on the night of the alleged assault, and that Smith became enraged because he greeted Smith's wife as "sister in law." He said that Smith threatened to "fix" him and that later in the night Smith lay in wait for him beneath a railroad bridge. He testified that Smith struck him in the stomach and over the right breast with the blade of a knife.

Joseph also testified that Smith recently offered him $25 to leave the state.

A TALENTED ACTRESS

To say that Miss Lillian Buckingham, the star of the Stampede, which scored such a brilliant success at Music Hall, is an able actress is but mildly expressing it. She has won great distinction as a playwright, having written not only the above mentioned play, but the "Scarlet Cross," a drama and a musical play entitled "Jim" and has composed many poems, one of which is here given:

"BROWN EYES"
Sweet soft brown eyes I love you—always did—
I love to solve the shadows in your dark depths hid—
Sparkling with mirth so tender, glowing,
true;
Dear Eyes of glorious brown, I love
only you.

One look into those velvet depths
doth thrill
My very being—Just one glance from them doth fill
All my day with sunshine's dazzling light;
As the twinkling stars doth fill the heaven's blue at night.

Alas, I wonder is I ever may—Kiss their sweet drooping lids—who knows perhaps some day—
They will come of their own dear, sweet will,
And then of warm, mad-kisses I will take my fill.

She has many talents and uses them to the best advantage as 'tis proven by the results of her dramatic works.

THE LAST CHARGE

Like most long-established institutions, the U. S. senate has its critics, and here and there one so unreasonably that he will believe anything bad about it.

A crowd of farmers were abusing the senate one market day, when one old fellow hustled into their midst.

"Well, boys," said he, "what's the senate up to now?"

"Why, ain't ye heard, Zachary?" said a young farmer, winking at the others. "The senate's went and passed a bill addin' two extra months to the winter."

Zachary struck his forehead with his red-mitted fist.

"Do tell!" he groaned. "Ain't that the luck! An' here am I clean out o' fodder!"—Philadelphia Record.

As in bunches and in couples
Down the street it moves along.
And I hear the constant babble
From the countless human tongue,
And I watch the lovers spooning
As they did when I was young.

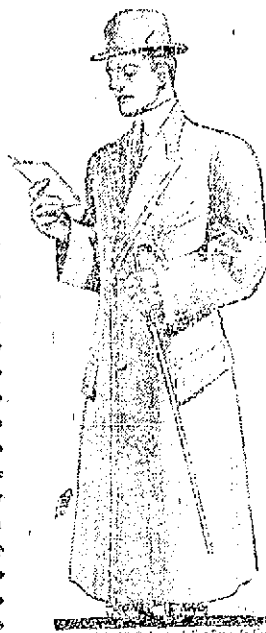

Here's a young and tender couple
Trading glances on the sky
Far away from home and mother,
Having dodged the watchful eye.
And I wonder as they wander
While they chat or softly sing
If they understand each other
And the trouble they may bring.

How can children be so silly?
I was that way once, I know,
But I cannot be too thankful
I've outgrown it long ago.
They in fancy feel a blessing
Falling from the stars above,
When in truth the thing is only
But a case of puppy love.

Let them go if they enjoy it.
I can sit here with my pipe
Making comments philosophic
From experience more ripe.
Do I envy them their pleasures
As they sip the honey dew
From the lips on which it ripened
I won't own it if I do.

THIRTY MILLIONS FOR RIVER AND HARBOR

Estimates of the Work to Be Submitted to Congress—Pepperrell Cove Gets $35,000.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Appropriations needed for river and harbor work for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, aggregate $30,095,000, according to estimates made public today by Secretary of War Dickinson in the form of a report made to him by Brigadier General W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers of the United States Army. The figures will be sent to Congress by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and legislation in accordance therewith will be recommended by President Taft in his annual message. The estimates are divided as follows:

Under continuing contracts $7,368,077
Rivers and harbors (general, including Mississippi river commission, and examination, surveys and findings) $22,627,361
Under California Debris Commission (expenses) 15,000
Prevention of deposits in New York harbor $5,260

Many pet projects calling for the expenditure of large sums have been omitted from the estimates this year. Among these are the fourteen-foot channel from Chicago to the Illinois river, deep channel for the Missouri river from St. Louis to Kansas City and from Kansas City north, as well as many others which have had as their champions members of both houses of Congress who insisted strenuously that these projects be not forgotten.

The elimination of many of the improvements which have formed parts of river and harbor bills in the past is in accordance with the insistence of President Taft that "pork barrel" measures shall be strangled. Instructions were given to the engineer officers of the army to prepare estimates only for such projects as are absolutely needed or which give certain promise to reduce the cost of transportation by opening up new water routes and enlarging some of those already existing.

The general estimates aggregating more than $200,000,000 are applied to 211 works. Of this amount about ten per cent is for the restoration or maintenance of completed projects at 136 localities, so as to secure the continuance of benefits resulting from past expenditures. Practically seventy per cent is for the prosecution of work on the Ohio, Mississippi, Detroit, Hudson, Delaware and Columbia rivers and at eleven important harbors. The remaining twenty per cent is for the prosecution and completion of eighty-two other works.

General Bixby says in his report that liberal appropriations are considered proper and desirable for snagging and other work necessary to make natural channels available whenever water borne commerce exists or is reasonably prospective. Improvements adopted by Congress, and not provided for in the estimates have been omitted, either on account of insufficiency of funds now available, on account of lack of urgency or of relative importance, or on account of defective projects which were adopted many years ago and are in need of reexamination with a view to revision or abandonment.

Included in the total of $22,627,361, which the chief engineers believe to be necessary for expenditures during the year ending June 30, 1912, is a lump sum of $400,000 for examinations survey and contingencies for which there may be no special appropriation. The estimates include the following:

Maine—Breakwater from Mt. Desert to Porcupine island, $30,000; Pepperrell's Cove, $35,000; Saco river, Me., $25,000.
Vermont—Harbor at Burlington, Vt., $25,000.

Massachusetts—Harbors at Gloucester, $15,000; Nantucket, $20,000; New Bedford and Fairhaven, 50,000; and Harbor of Refuge at Sandy Bay, Cape Ann, $100,000; Mystic and Malden rivers, Mass., $10,000; Taunton river, Mass., $5,000.

Rhode Island—Harbor at Block Island, $12,000; Harbor of Refuge at Point Judith, $50,000; Pawtucket river, R. I., $50,000.

Connecticut—Improvement harbors at Five Mile River Stamford, Southport, Greenwich and Westport, and Saugutuck river, $35,000; breakwater at New Haven, $35,000; harbor of refuge, Duck Island harbor, $100,000.

Estimates were made aggregating $7,368,077 for works which Congress has provided may be carried under a continuing contract system, and these are not included in the total of the new estimates submitted by General Bixby. These items include the following:

Bay Ridge and Red Hook channels, Gowanus Bay, N. Y., $241,000; for thirty-five foot channel at Boston, Mass., $1,000,000; harbor at Cleveland, O., $200,000; improving Detroit river, $250,000; improving harbor at Ludington, Mich., $219,087; improving harbor at Norfolk, Va., $100,000; Passaic river, N. ## FOR WORTHY CAUSE

The New Hampshire State Federation seal, designed as a "money-getter" for the campaign which is being waged against tuberculosis, is gaining statewide popularity. Mrs. J. L. Hosmer of Manchester, who is in charge of distribution, having already had calls for 55,000 of them. The clubwomen all over the state are interested in their sale and are bringing them to the attention of their friends, so it is probable that the sale before the holidays are over will be a very large one. Mrs. Hosmer filled an order for 3000 from this city Monday, and from now on it is probable that there will be continual demand for them.

The seal is very attractive and will add to the appearance of Christmas letters and packages, and at the same time help along a most worthy cause.

LOCAL DASHES

The school department have not started to move to their new quarters in City hall. They have two fine rooms assigned them.

The Republicans have nominated their ticket for the coming city election and the democrats will follow suit very shortly.

Shop early is the best plan. The Christmas goods are now being displayed.

The City Council will have another meeting on Wednesday evening. Weekly meetings seem to be the rule now.

Have your cleaning done by Robbins' power machine, whether your house is wired or not. Rugs, carpets, draperies and furniture. F. A. Robbins, 115 Market street.

The high sea which has been running for the past few days has abated some but not enough to tempt the fleet that have been weather bound in the harbor to start away on Monday. The tug Portsmouth with three barges has been held back three days by high seas.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

LIKE THEIR HOME PORT

GRE WOF THE MONTANA HAD A GOOD TIME IN THIS CITY

The following communication appeared in the December issue of The Fleet Review, a magazine devoted to the enlisted men of the navy. It shows the men of the Montana while here were made to feel that this was their home port and appreciated the fact that they have a good home station to come to.

Montana Happy Ship.
U. S. S. Montana,
Charleston, S. C.,
November 8, 1910.

Editor Fleet Review:
After a month of inactivity as a man-of-war spent at the navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H., the Montana is again doing duty on the high seas. The month past was one in which the members of the crew had an opportunity to become acquainted with the new home port of Portsmouth. It being the first visit of the Montana to the little city by the sea. It is hard to suit a man-of-war's man and especially the one today. As a result many are satisfied and some are dissatisfied with our assignment to the northern yard.

Portsmouth appeared more at a disadvantage in the season of the year that we were there than would have been the case had our visit occurred in the spring or early summer, but as it was the little city presented a glorious welcome to the men of the Montana. The moving pictures, theatre, and dance halls appealing to most of the boys, worked overtime for the greater part of our stay. The man-of-war's man is always welcomed in the port of Portsmouth, his uniform is respected as long as he respects himself (all that we ask) and the good American dollars that he spends are appreciated. A consensus of opinion leads one to believe that nearly all are satisfied with the change of station, and all are unanimous in boosting the healthy, rugged climate. All in all the month at the yard was very pleasantly passed and we look forward with delightful anticipation to our return in the golden summer when the trees are white with blossoms, the city full of pretty summer girls, and the nearby summer resorts doing overtime on that good old New England clam chowder. Long live our home city, Portsmouth.

During our stay furloughs were granted to all men regardless of class and between three and four hundred took advantage of a chance to spend a few days at home. It seems pertinent to remark here that the Montana, for a ship of her class and with more than 900 men in the crew, has perhaps fewer desertions than any other ship in the Navy. During a stay of forty days at the yard in which more than 325 furloughs and every night liberty was granted, but five men failed to return; rather a remarkable showing for a ship with the population of a small-sized city.

Our football team whipped into shape during our sojourn in this section and succeeded in downing the Tennessee and Dubuque men, while teams from Fort McKinley, Me., the city of Portsmouth, and the U. S. North Carolina, succeeded in taking our measure, but wait a little, we are improving wonderfully.

And just now we are to be taken to the isthmus for the purpose of looking over the works that are eating up papa's taxes. The crew of another ship might incline to the "chesty" but not so with the boys of the Montana, since this is a part of our game and really it is becoming quite a fad with us to have the greatest personages in the land exercising on the quarter deck. After Panama, battle practice off the Cape of the Chesapeake, and in December too, a junket to Guantanamo for power trials, a fall out of the Atlantic Fleet on return from Europe, small arm practice, learning to swim, and lots of other things in Guantanamo Bay, then spring target practice; rather a strenuous winter, and, by the way, see if the recruiting service cannot pick up a few of the land lubbers that are ever harping about no work to us. Some of these "birds of spring" will confine their articles to such subjects as "plowing by compass," etc., in future spasms.

Yours truly,
J. L. C.

Snubbed the Composer.
Gustav Mahler had a queer experience in Munich one day for which his name was partly responsible. His new symphony was being rehearsed, and he took advantage of an hour's intermission to get some fresh air. "On returning to the building," says a Munich paper, "he lost his way and tried to reach the hall through a corridor in which plasterers were at work. 'You cannot pass through here,' he was told. 'But I am Mahler.' (Mahler is the German for painter). 'You look it,' was the unsympathetic reply of the man who blocked his way. 'We are not ready for the painters yet, so run on.' And the composer, realizing that argument would be useless, plunged into the labyrinth and finally reached his destination."

Camels in Arabia.
There are two varieties of camels in use in Arabia, the dromedary and the freight camel. The dromedary dromedaries are celebrated for their easy riding gait and speed. A dromedary carries about 300 pounds and travels about six miles a day. It can be purchased for 100 to 150 Maria Theresa dollars ($42.50 to $56.25). A freight camel carries about 500 pounds and travels about two and a half miles an hour. It costs 300 Maria Theresa dollars ($127 or more).

Babies in India.
In India the baby rides in a basket which hangs from its mother's head or in a hammock hung from her hips. Sometimes the baby's nose is adorned with a nose ring, and in some parts its face is wrapped in a veil like its mother's. The Chinese baby is tied to the back of an older child. Strangest of all, the mother in Guinea buries her baby up to its waist in sand, and that is the only cradle the baby ever knows.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
District of New Hampshire, ss.
WHEREAS, on the 28th day of November, 1910, George M. D. Fernald, electrician, of Portsmouth, in said District, assigned for value of the claim of Charles R. Pearson, machinist, of said Portsmouth, filed a bill in the District Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire, against the Steamer Sightseer, her tackle, apparel, machinery, fixtures and furniture, and against all persons lawfully intervening for their interests therein, in a cause of contract civil and maritime, and in violation of the provisions of the law of said premises, and the owner or owners, and all other persons who have or pretend to have or claim any right, title or interest therein, are hereby cited to be and appear at the time and place aforesaid, to show cause, if any they have, why a final decree should not pass as prayed.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a District Court of the United States will be held in the United States Court Rooms, in the City of Concord, in said District, on the 20th day of December, 1910, at 11 a. m. I have seized said Steamer Sightseer, her tackle, apparel, machinery, fixtures and furniture, and have her in my custody.

The fluttering breath of sudden leaves, of flowers,
Of forest streams, waits softly out
to sea;
No weeping and no laughter breaks
the silence—
The vasty silence of thine empire.

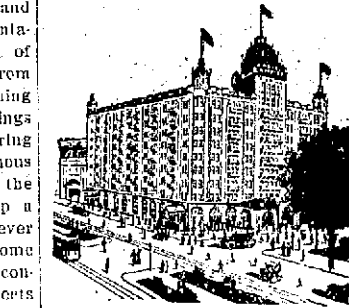

Oppressed with passion and oppress-

The throbbing world sleeps, toss-

O sickle, what a harvest-home of visions
Lies dreaming, waiting for you here
below!

BLUEJACKETS BEING FLEECE

Paris, Nov. 28.—The Journal today condemns the practice of rapacious traders at Cherbourg and Brest of overcharging the bluejackets of the American fleet, who, the paper says, also have been loaded down with spurious coins. The Journal adds that the disorderliness on the part of the visiting sailors has been confined to an expression of righteous indignation over treatment received or to a defence against the Apache element.

To a representative of Le Journal who questioned Rear Admiral Vreeland concerning rumors of unpleasant incidents at Cherbourg that officer gave the following statement:

"There are certain to be a few bad characters among our 300 Osamen, and there are bad characters among the population of every city of Cherbourg's size. When these two elements have met there has been trouble. There are, however, but isolated cases. The reception of the Americans by the substantial inhabitants of Cherbourg and their authorities, civil and military, has been the height of courtesy and friendship."

In reply to the query, "Is it true that a large part of the American sailors are foreigners, possibly deserters from foreign navies?" the admiral said:

"It most certainly is not true. Ninety-five per cent of the men of the United States navy are citizens of the United States. No man can enlist as a sailor unless he can establish his citizenship. You will do a service to both countries if you disabuse people's minds of such an idea, born of conditions which existed one hundred years ago but without foundation in fact today."

While returning from the reception given the Maritime Prefect on Thursday night, Midshipman E. C. Raguet, of the South Carolina, had an experience which was for the moment rather exciting and which in its outcome spoke well for the manly art of self-defence as taught to destroy naval officers at Annapolis. On leaving the reception the midshipman started down to the landing to get a boat to return to his ship. A man not in uniform came up behind him and, suddenly grabbing back his coat, threw it over his head. Fortunately for the midshipman the cape was not fastened firmly in front. He threw it off and knocked his assailant down. Not wishing to miss the last boat to the ship he left the man lying in the street. There he was found later by the police. He tried to convince them that an American naval officer had tried to rob him, but he is well known to the authorities and is now in a cell. He will probably remain there unless he can convince the court that the midshipman was an "Apache" in disguise.

Cherbourg's hospitalities for the American battleships' officers and crews culminated Saturday in a gala performance and buffet supper at the Municipal theatre. Sixty American officers were the guests of the municipality and were entertained royally. On their arrival at the theatre they were met by an equal number of French army and naval officers and shown their seats. The flags of France and the United States were displayed in the lobbies. Rear Admiral Vreeland and Captain Badger occupied the municipal box with the prefect, Vice Admiral Bellue, and the subprefect, and the mayor. French and American officers filled the other boxes and the floor of the theatre.

The guests assembled in the foyer afterward and enjoyed the buffet supper. The mayor of Cherbourg thanked the American officers for giving the city of Cherbourg the pleasure of entertaining them. He referred to the proverbial friendship between the two great republics and proposed the health of President Taft and the American officers.

Rear Admiral Vreeland, replying, thanked Cherbourg on behalf of the officers present and of their country for its beautiful hospitality. All then joined in drinking the health of President Fallieres.

The municipality of Brest Sunday gave a banquet to five hundred of the sailors of the American and French warships in that port. The men fraternized most cordially.

INDICTED IN MAINE

William H. Nice and Lou Porter, each aged about 45 years and both well known business men of Boston were arrested in Boston Monday by Deputy U. S. Marshal James Ruhl, on a charge of being fugitives from justice from Maine.

They are charged with having engaged in the retail trade of liquors without payment of a U. S. revenue tax. During the forenoon they were arrested before U. S. Commissioner Hayes, and pleading not guilty the hearing was continued until today, each being held in his personal recognition of $300.

It appears that Messrs. Nice and Porter last summer cruised along the coast of Maine, and the engine of their power boat having become disabled and they put into Rockland for repairs. While thus engaged it is said that quite a number living in the town assisted in various ways and were entertained from the boat's stores, which it is alleged embraced some 70 gallons of ales and liquors. The result was an investigation and the arrest of the captain charged with illegal selling of liquor. In the local court it was claimed by the prosecution that much of the 70 gallons of the ale had been sold to the consumers. The captain was fined $100 and costs.

After Nice and Porter left Maine the attention of the U. S. internal revenue officials was called to the matter and a secret indictment was returned against them in the U. S. court at Portland.

FUNERAL OF WESLEY A. RAND

Services for Former Boston Hotel Man Held Monday Morning—Body Taken to Rye N. H.

Funeral services for Wesley A. Rand, who was identified with Young's hotel, Boston, in the days when Mr. Young was at the head of that house, were held at the home of his sister, Henrietta T. Rand, 4 Ham-rinch avenue, Boston, at 10.30 Monday forenoon, when many lifelong friends and neighbors of the deceased were present.

After the delivering of the eulogy, followed by prayers by Rev. R. Perry Bush, pastor of the First Universalist church of Chelsea, the body, which was almost hidden beneath a mass of floral offerings, was viewed by those present.

After the services the body was taken to Rye, N. H., the deceased's birthplace, where the interment will take place in the family lot. Mr. Rand was 64 years old and is survived by a sister and brother, W. H. Rand, who lives in the old homestead.

Mr. Rand was well known here, in fact began his hotel career at the old National house on Congress street, and afterwards moving to Boston. He was, however, a frequent visitor here and at Rye.

A GREAT WESTERN PLAY

The Stampede at Music Hall Pleased a Good Audience.

Lillian Buckingham in the role of Wanga, a half breed in "The Stampede," created a hit at Music Hall last evening. She is known as "The Girl of the Golden West," and she lived up to her reputation in her impersonation of the character she took last evening.

The play is one of the best stories of the western life ever presented in this city and with Miss Buckingham and a very capable company it was very well handled. To add to the piece it is very well staged, the setting for the last act with the working up of the stampede being an excellent piece of stage craft.

Supporting Miss Buckingham were Arthur Behens, who handled in admirable style the character of Dick Travers, a mining engineer, John Steppings as Senator Bobbs, a United States commissioner; Frederick J. Waelder as John Morton, a railroad magnate; John Murray as Joe Iron Horn, a Witch Creek Indian, a part particularly well done; John Kingsbury as Chapa, chief of the tribe; Amy Veness as Mrs. Morton was good, and Lela Lee as Jessica Morton was equally clever.

The merchants are displaying a fine line of Christmas goods.

INCREASE IN RAILROAD RATES

TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILS TO JUMP RATE ALONG THE LINE
25 PER CENT.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Transcontinental railroad officials, in session in Chicago, are planning an advance in the freight rates between Chicago, New York, Boston and other eastern points and the Pacific coast. The advance contemplates "an increase amounting to 25 and 35 per cent, according to an article in the Tribune today.

A plan is contemplated which will increase the rate between Chicago and the Pacific coast, but also will cut down materially the advantage over Chicago which New York and Atlantic seaboard shippers have enjoyed in the past.

The rates from Chicago and New York to the coast heretofore have been the same. Under the proposed schedule, not yet indorsed by the interstate commerce commission, the rate from Chicago to the Pacific is raised 50 cents per 100 pounds, but New York has $1 added to the tariff its shippers now pay for freights from there to the Pacific coast.

The transcontinental lines are now in conference over their proposed through schedule increase. In their effort they seek shelter under the amendment to the long and short haul clause of interstate commerce law, effective Feb. 17. The railroads desire this increase as an alternative.

They say that they do not want to be forced by the government to reduce their rates to intermediate points in the west which, in some cases are higher than the existing through rate to the coast. Their claim in this direction, the roads claim, is justified by the action of the interstate commerce commission in the Spokane rate case where the original tariff from eastern points equaled the through rate to coast points plus local rate from the coast back to Spokane. The commission reduced the through rate to Spokane to an equality with that to coast points and later to 10 cents less than that to the coast.

The railroads will ask the interstate commerce commission first to maintain the existing rates. Failing in that they will throw their whole energy into an effort for an increase of existing through rates to the Pacific coast 25 or even 35 per cent.

A tentative schedule of rates, now under consideration, advances the first-class rate from New York to Pacific coast cities from $3 to $4 per 100 pounds, with corresponding increases on the lower five numbered and five lettered classes. The rates to intermediate points are to be graded between these figures. On this basis the first class tariff from Chicago to the Pacific coast would be approximately $5.50 instead of $3, as at present.

The principal railroad system involved in the plan for adjustment of the western air setare the Hariman lines, including the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific; the Hill lines, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific and Denyer and Rio Grande; the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, although nearly every railroad in the United States is more or less directly affected.

"We are simply working on a plan to present to the commission a tariff that will not conflict with the amendments to the long and short haul clause in the fourth section of the interstate commerce act," said J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Hariman lines, yesterday. Nothing has been decided upon and any rates thus far considered merely are tentative.

"A $3.75 first class scale has been discussed and also a $4 scale," said another traffic official. There is nothing tangible up to present. The roads are considering two general plans. One is to charge higher rates to intermediate points, as at present and the other is to establish a uniform graded scale for class rates, based on the commission's rate, which they prescribed as reasonable to the intermediate point. Taking $3.50 as reasonable for Spokane and Salt Lake City, the rate to the coast would be somewhat higher, of course, and New York would take a higher rate than Chicago, although the difference would be small—less than the local rate of 75 cents from New York to Chicago.

LOWER COURT UPHELD

In Case of Clerk of Court Charged With Embezzlement.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The attempt of prosecution of Frank H. Mason, formerly clerk of Massachusetts, on charges of embezzlement, was defeated today in the supreme court of the United States, when that court affirmed the decision in the lower court favorable to Mason.

Justice Hughes delivered the decision of the court. Mason was indicted in 1909 on charges of having embezzled money, amounting in three years to about $1000. The money came into his hands while he was clerk, as fees and emoluments of office. It was claimed that the amount was more than the compensation legally permitted to be retained by him.

The court below struck out the three counts in the indictment which alleged the embezzlement, on the ground that title to the fees remained in the clerk and was not vested in the United States, at least until the clerk had taken out the proportion due him, and had made a return of the surplus in accordance with the law. From this holding the government appealed.

PEONAGE CONSPIRATORS

U. S. Supreme Court Allows Sentence of Four Alabama Men to Stand—These First Convictions.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Sentences of imprisonment imposed upon W. S. Harlan, Robert Gallingier, C. C. Hillon and S. E. Huggins of Alabama on peonage conspiracy charges were allowed to stand as legal today by the supreme court of the United States.

These were the first convictions under the recent crusade of the federal government against peonage.

ON TRIAL FOR LIFE

HATTIE LE BLANC, FACES JURY WHO WILL DECIDE HER FATE

East Cambridge Courthouse, Nov. 28.—The panel that is to try Hattie LeBlanc, the 17-year-old French Canadian, on the charge of the murder of Clarence F. Glover, at Waltham, on Nov. 20, 1909, was completed at 1.10 this afternoon. The jurors are as follows:

Walthrop H. Fairbanks, Sudbury, a farmer, foreman.
Charles H. Perry, Burlington, painter.
Stillman R. Parker, Reading, clerk.
J. Frank Robbins, Stow, a farmer.
James G. McGrath, Newton, a painter.
Ellixia D. Martell, Ayer, retired.
Lawrence F. Yeager, Natick, teamster.

Albee Annis, Shirley, elastic web weaver.
William H. Campbell, Wayland, a farmer.
Wilfred A. Clark, Newton, harness manufacturer.
Patrick S. Ward, Chelmsford, merchant.

Leon A. Whitcomb, Pepperell, a sawyer.
Court adjourned for luncheon at 1.15, and convened at 2. At 2.30 the jury took a view at Waltham.

As early as 8 o'clock the crowd outside of the building began to gather. It was not so large as it is expected it will be from day to day, for Sheriff John R. Fairbank had announced that the public would not be admitted to the room in which the trial is going on until after a jury has been secured.

The sheriff and Mrs. Isabelle Warnock, acting matron, stole a march on the morbidly curious. At 8 o'clock the door leading into the jail opened and the two, with the youthful prisoner between them, strolled across the street toward the court building.

None of the spectators realized until too late that the youthful individual was the young girl who has been so much in the public mind for a year past. Hattie was taken immediately to the sheriff's office in the court building, where she was carefully kept away from public view until time for her to enter the court room.

At 9 o'clock the 195 men summoned from various parts of the county began to assemble. They soon occupied every available seat in the court room, and more settees were hustled in by court officers to furnish additional accommodation.

At 9.55 clerk William C. Dillingham appeared with an awful of books and records. The crowd waited expectantly for the young prisoner to be brought in. She appeared at the door in the rear of the courtroom at 9.58. Her appearance was without ostentation and it was only after she had become seated within the bar inclosure that those in the courtroom realized who she was.

The girl was not placed in the steel dock. She sat between Mrs. Warnock and court officer Fred Rhoades to the left of it. Those who expected to see a young woman in the person of the defendant were disappointed. They saw instead an immature, modest-looking girl hardly out of childhood, with light hair and a naturally colorless face, with blue eyes that were hidden behind a pair of gold-rimmed glasses.

She wore a blue cloth dress with a neat lace collar at the neck. Altogether her appearance was such as to draw the sympathy of all.

She sat in her chair with the first few moments after she was brought in, looking somewhat nervously with a plain band ring on the little finger of her left hand. Judge Daniel W. Bond took his place as the clock in the courthouse tower boomed out 10 o'clock, and court was formally opened.

Clerk Dillingham, an instant later, began to call the roll of jurors from various parts of the county. It was finished at 10.17.

Dist. Atty. Higgins, at 10.28, gave a brief history of the proceedings in the case to date and moved that the jury be empanelled. Senior Counsel Johnson, for the defence, called attention to a motion to quash filed Jan. 31. He said he would not argue it now, but would waive any rights.

He read the motion, which set forth that chapter under which the indictment was drawn was unconstitutional and void, because the crime was not sufficiently described to enable defendant to make a suitable defence, and it was in violation of the rights guaranteed to defendant under the constitution.

Judge Bond overruled the motion and exceptions were noted. Judge Bond then asked if the defendant could understand what was being

SAID AND IF AN INTERPRETER WOULD BE NEEDED.

Mr. Johnson replied that she could understand sufficiently, and that he had a young woman who could interpret for her if necessary.

The full panel was completed at 1.10 and after the noon recess the view of the premises took the greater part of the afternoon, along with the opening by the District Attorney.

YOUNG DREAMER SOLD

E. F. Dixon of this city, owner of the handsome bay stallion, Young Dreamer, with which he won a prize at the last Rochester fair in the exhibition class, has sold the stallion to High Sheriff Charles Hamlin of Gorham, this state, who is delighted with his purchase although he had to pay a good figure. The stallion is a very promising animal and will undoubtedly be heard from among the money winners later.

Mr. Dixon has just returned from the horse show at Madison Square Garden in New York. He did not buy any horses, as he has as many now as he can conveniently keep. He says he has five good colts in his barn at the present time.—Dover Democrat.

Mr. Dixon was formerly employed as a drug clerk with Boardman and Norton, of this city.

Clerks Have Busy Meeting

On Monday evening a very interesting meeting of the classified civil service employees was held in G. A. R. hall.

The new officers were installed. Although the attendance was not as large as it should have been, all present were full of enthusiasm and were deeply interested in the report of the delegate who has just returned from the national convention recently held in New York city. The branches at the other yards are flourishing, and the delegate stated that there was "something doing every minute" at the convention.

Many important matters were taken up at this meeting of the branch and every member present seemed very well pleased with the "news" regarding, and progress of, matters so vital to the organization.

Coming Back to the States

Friends of Rear Admiral, formerly at this yard, and Mrs. Corwin P. Ross, are grieved to learn that they will leave shortly for the coast. While it was understood the admiral would leave Honolulu, it was hoped that his orders would be deferred until spring. "Admiral and Mrs. Ross," says the Honolulu Gazette, "have endeavored themselves not only among the social set in which they move, but the whole community as well, for they are both noted for their charm of manner and their great courtesy. The going away of this couple will prove a severe loss to Honolulu."—Army and Navy Journal.

RIVER AND HARBOR

The fleet of steambound vessels in the lower harbor continues to grow. During last night several more came in from the eastward.

Schooner Clarence H. Vanner is chartered to load coal at Philadelphia for this port, with the option of Boston.

Tug Underwriter reached Boston yesterday from New York after one of the best-paying salvage jobs she has ever had. She towed the crippled, rudderless schooner Rebecca Palmer from Brunswick to New York, the trip occupying 10 days, and it is said that the owners of the tug Palmer paid the owners of the tug $200 per day for her services. The four masted schooner Sallie C. Marvill, which was engaged to sail astern of the Palmer and act as rudder, was paid $50 each day from the time of her leaving Brunswick until her arrival at Philadelphia. The Marvill went as far as Sandy Hook, and then proceeded to her destination.

DEMOCRATS MAY SELECT COTTON

The democrats, except those of Ward 3, do not appear to be very active relative to the coming campaign. The leaders, however, have had their hopes dashed in looking around for a candidate for mayor.

The latest move made by the city committee in relation to a man to head the ticket meets the approval of the party voters.

They want William W. Cotton as a candidate before the mayoralty caucus and claim they will be on easy street should he consent to go in the field.

A Bank Account Simplifies Things

When system and order comes into a man's routine of life they "ease the pressure" in a hundred ways—and make the management of affairs simple and pleasant, instead of burdensome and vexatious. But "system" and "order" are strangers to the man who does not have a bank account.
